

IMPAC I Bridge Turned Off for FY2003 Records

August 20, 2002

The bridge between IMPAC I and IMPAC II was turned off for ALL fiscal-year 2003 records on August 10. This change, originally scheduled for implementation on October 1, was moved up to correct data problems encountered after the July deployment involving the assignment of IPF numbers to FY2003 applications. Since IMPAC I cannot read 8-digit grant numbers and FY2003 applications bear 8-digit numbers, it is no longer possible to bridge them to IMPAC I. FY2002 and prior data are still being bridged and can be accessed through IMPAC I.

What does this mean to you?

- For FY2003 application records, IMPAC II, and not IMPAC I, will now be the system of record.
- IMPAC I will contain a complete set of FY2002 data but will not contain any new FY2003 applications.
- This change does NOT affect any awards, applications, or modifications to FY2002 and prior records as they will continue to be bridged back to IMPAC I for a period of time.
